Co-Located with the Third National Accountable Care Organization Congress

www.ACOCongress.com
The nine million dual eligibles who qualify for both Medicare and Medicaid benefits make up one of the country’s most vulnerable populations. Beneficiaries frequently encounter barriers to healthcare access and have great difficulty navigating the complex administrative system created by the uncoordinated and often conflicting incentives of two beneficiary programs. The Affordable Care Act contains several provisions intended to improve the quality of care delivered to dual eligibles, while gaining greater control over the increasing costs of caring for this population by offering high quality coordinated care and improved outcomes. The First National Dual Eligibles Summit, October 30 – 31, 2012 in Los Angeles, will bring together policymakers, state government officials, advocates, experts, and caregivers who have been working on the front lines, providing care and advocating for the dual eligible population. Featured speakers and expert panels will provide analysis and perspective, and will share their hands-on experience in caring for this unique population. The two-day conference will include in-depth discussions of a number of different state demonstrations, plan and provider alignment strategies, the implications of the upcoming elections, and the long-term impact of health reform. In addition to compelling keynote presentations, there will be two content-rich pre-conferences and fifteen concurrent sessions offering participants a chance to discuss the implementation and operational challenges involved in managing care for dual eligibles, quality measurement, innovations in home and community based services, network strategies, and risk management. Please join us in discussing this urgent initiative with thought leaders, colleagues and national policy and program experts.

Pre-Conference I: Dual Eligible Market Opportunities, Challenges and Solutions (Presented by The Camden Group)

This session will provide leaders of hospitals, health systems and physician groups a comprehensive understanding of the dual eligible population and the financial imperatives, resource use, and care coordination requirements this population creates for their organizations. Industry leaders will gain insight on how to restructure their care management processes, build appropriate infrastructure, and align incentives in order to effectively manage dual eligible patients across the continuum of care. Topics include:

- The size and scope of the dual eligible population, including a typical profile of a dual eligible beneficiary and how to identify and target dual eligible sub-populations
- The economic impact dual eligibles have on the current healthcare system, including a detailed look at dual eligible spend for Medicare and Medicaid and insights into acute and post-acute utilization
- The challenges associated with serving the dual eligible population, coordination of care difficulties, and the wide range of conditions and health needs
- Care delivery transformation and reimbursement models tailored specifically for the dual eligible population with a discussion of current models in use
- Preparing your organization for the impact of the dual eligible population and specific actions and capabilities that should be developed

Pre-Conference II: Nine Million People and a Half Trillion Dollars of Resources: The Fulcrum of Health Reform in Action (Presented by HealthCare Partners)

As one of the nation’s largest providers of managed Medicare, Davita HealthCare Partners is poised to be a health delivery system of choice for the huge wave of new dual eligible patients being auto-enrolled into managed care. In preparation, the organization underwent a concentrated effort to successfully develop and implement a care management structure redesign that focused on home and community based services, long term care prevention, and special collaborative care centers focused on the chronically mentally ill.

This session will demonstrate how to ensure success in treating the most challenging patient population enrolled in managed care. It will teach attendees about successfully collaborating with health plans, government, the provider community, and most importantly patients and their families. Topics of discussion will focus on best practices in marketing, patient experience, intake and empowerment of patients and families, integrating medical and psychosocial treatment with long term care coordination, and breaking the cost curve while improving care quality and clinical and fiscal outcomes
